Gale College

GALE COLLEGE is located at Galesville, a thrifty and progressive village in Trempealeau county, Wisconsin.

The last pages of this catalog will convey a fair idea of the town as a place of business. But, in connection with Gale College, it is of greater importance to state that the social dispositions and habits of the citizens are healthy and congenial, and that the moral and religious spirit of the village is as good as may reasonably be expected.

Galesville is celebrated for its beautiful scenery and its romantic surroundings. There is probably no spot in the Mississippi Valley on which nature has lavished her treasures with greater profusion than on Galesville and its immediate vicinity. No jewel could have a prettier setting. In regard to location Gale College is indeed fortunate.

RAILWAY CONNECTIONS

Galesville is situated about fifteen miles from Winona and twenty-five miles from LaCrosse, and is the terminus of a spur of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway, connecting with the main line at Trempealeau. At this point connections can also be made with the Burlington and the Green Bay & Western railways.

HISTORY OF GALE COLLEGE

Gale College, the oldest institution of classical learning in Western Wisconsin, was founded in 1854, by Hon. George Gale.

Seeing the urgent need of establishing such an institution, he purchased two thousand acres of land where the city of Galesville is now located, and immediately applied for a charter for Galesville University, which was granted in 1854. On the fourth day of June of the following year, 1855, the first Board of Trustees was organized with Hon. George Gale as president.

The erection of the college building was commenced in 1859 and completed about four years later. During the years in which the building was under construction the school was conducted in the county court house, with Samuel Fallows as principal and instructor.

The first epoch in the history of the school includes the years between 1859 and 1877. It was deemed desirable to place the institution under the control of some church organization, and this was accomplished when, in 1859, the Methodist Episcopal Church accepted this trust, which remained in its charge until the year 1877. During this period the school labored under great difficulties. A considerable amount of money was required to erect the building, and to meet the requirements from time to time, and being in the early settlement days, the number of those who were able to render pecuniary aid was very small; hence the burden fell heavily on these few. The attendance, which had averaged about fifty students per term, was greatly decreased by the outbreak of the Civil War. Many of the young men in attendance responded to their country's call for soldiers. This decrease in attendance added to the difficulty of meeting the financial requirements. But, with the firm conviction that the attainment of greater educational facilities was worthy of their best efforts, the pioneers willingly assisted to the extent of their ability, and the enterprise was not abandoned.

In 1861 Prof. Fallows resigned his position as principal, and was succeeded by Mr. Magill, who served in that capacity only a short time, and who was in turn succeeded by the Rev. J. L. Farber, of New York. Mr. Gilliland was the next president, and he was elected to fill the office of president of the Board of Trustees, which had been made vacant by the resignation of Judge Gale.

For a time after Pres. Gilliland took charge the school seems to have prospered, the records showing an attendance of more than one hundred students per year. But the financial condition of the institution caused the officers much anxiety, and application for aid was made to the church. The Conference of the M. E. Church accordingly passed a resolution to raise a sum of fifty thousand dollars among its members. An attempt to solicit this money was made, but proved futile.

Pres. Gilliland then tendered his resignation, and recommended that the institution be placed under the control of some religious denomination which was able to render the necessary financial support. Accordingly, in 1876, the Chippewa Presbytery, then in session in La Crosse, was requested to appoint a committee to confer with the local board for the transfer of the control of Galesville University from the M. E. Church to the Presbyterian General Assembly. After some reluctance the charge was accepted by that body, and a board of trustees was appointed which assembled for the first time on May 15, 1877. This body made provision for ascertaining and meeting claims against the institution and for procuring pecuniary means for the operation of the school. The course of study was re-adjusted so that the schedule, instead of being collegiate grade, was modeled after the plan of Philip's Academy. A Normal Course for teachers was also developed. A faculty was appointed with R. S. Winans as president. The following year John W. McLawry was made president, and Rev. John Moore, the resident pastor, also became a member of the faculty.

At a meeting of the officers in March, 1878, a resolution was made to petition the War Department to provide for an instructor in military tactics and drill in Galesville University. This petition was granted, and in 1880, Lieut. John L. Clem, known in the story of the Civil War as the Drummer Boy of Chickamauga, was appointed as such instructor and entered upon his duties at once. This arrangement, which provided military training for the young men at the University, was a happy one. The real advantages to be derived from such training were appreciated, and a lively interest was aroused which, together with the well-deserved popularity of Lieut. Clem, combined to attract a large attendance of students. This increase entailed the need of more room and the enlargement of the building was agreed upon. In 1881, the building, which originally was two stories high, was enlarged by the addition of a third story, thus providing space for more students and also for drill room in winter.

Lieut. Clem was succeeded in 1882 by Lieut. G. N. Chase who served in that capacity until 1883, when the military department was discontinued. In January, 1884, the main building was destroyed by fire. This was such a terrible blow to the institution that for a time its fate seemed dubious. But such was the untiring zeal of the friends of the institution at home and abroad that in the course of a year a new building was erected on the site of the one destroyed. For several years during the early eighties excellent work was done at the college. Under the able guidance of such scholarly men as Moses Peters and E. O. Hagen, a large number of young men, since prominent in their professions, laid the foundations of their education. Rev. McLawry, having tendered his resignation, Dr. J. Irwin Smith assumed the presidency in the year 1886, and continued in the discharge of the duties appertaining to that office for a period of two years. Rev. Smith had previously rendered the institution valuable aid in the capacity of financial agent. In the early nineties the attendance began to decrease from year to year, until the number of students became so small that to maintain the institution under those conditions was impossible. Something had to be done to give the school a new impetus.

In March, 1901, the deliberations, which finally resulted in the transfer of the control of the institution from the Presbyterian Board of Trustees to the Lutheran Synod, were commenced. The La Crosse Conference of the Lutheran Synod, then in session in La Crosse, elected a committee to go to Galesville for the purpose of examining the property, and to confer with the local board to determine the conditions under which the transfer might be effected. The committee, after having performed its duty, reported that by the payment of six thousand five hundred dollars the transfer could be made. The city of Galesville pledged itself to furnish two thousand five hundred, and the purchase was made in August, 1901.

It was deemed necessary to make extensive repairs on the building before the school could be opened. A sum of more than two thousand dollars was contributed by members of the Lutheran congregations in the district and judiciously expended in repairing and improving the building. This work was completed in the fall of the year 1901. On the first day of December, the institution was dedicated, its name being changed from Galesville University to Gale College. Prof. H. G. Stub of Minneapolis performed the ceremony. On the following day the school commenced its work under the new administration with Rev. L. M. Gimmestad, who has since remained with the school, as president.

The time during which the school has been under Lutheran supervision has been a period of success and constant progress. The old courses have been improved, and additional courses have been introduced. In 1908-1909 a music department was established, which has now become a permanent and prominent feature of the school. During the same year the Classical and Scientific Courses were introduced, taking the place of the Academic Course. To the Commercial Department was added a Four Year Course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Accounts. All of these courses, as well as the Luther College Preparatory and the Normal Parochial Courses, have continually been improved and broadened. In addition to the courses mentioned above, some work of Collegiate grade has also been carried on.

Musical and Literary organizations have always played an important part at Gale College. A band was organized by Prof. A. E. Giere in 1903. Several tours were made during the summer months. Perhaps the most successful was the tour of 1909, when a distance of eight hundred miles was covered, the route of travel being through Western Wisconsin and Southern and Central Minnesota. An orchestra was organized by Prof. H. Onsgard in 1911. This work is now being successfully carried on by Prof. L. A. Moe.

The Utile Cum Dulci, a Literary Society organized by students of the school thirty-five years ago, is still in a flourishing condition. All students are members. Normannalaget is a Norwegian Society based on the same general principles as the Utile Cum Dulci. At this point may be mentioned the Gale College Club, organized in 1906, which has for its object the lending of moral and financial support to the institution. All friends of the school are kindly requested to become members of this organization.

Literary activities are being stimulated further by the publishing of The Gale Pennant, a student's monthly publication, first issued in 1908.

The work of the school is facilitated by a good Library, the value of which was much increased by a careful cataloging in 1912-1913.

The Dormitory, built in 1906, furnishes comfortable accommodations for fifty-five students.

For a Church home the students have the Trinity Lutheran Church, a pleasant and attractive building, erected by the Galesville congregation of The Norwegian Lutheran Synod in 1909.

That which is most needed at present is a Gymnasium. A movement is now afoot among the students, ex-students and graduates of the school that will likely result in the erection of such a building this summer.

BUILDINGS

THE Main Building is a substantial stone structure, three stories high, with accommodations for about one hundred and fifty students. The entire building is supplied with hot air furnaces, which heat all class rooms, besides the office, library, laboratory, chapel and assembly hall.

The Dormitory is located a few rods from the main building. It has a commanding position, and affords a beautiful view of the city and Decorah Peak in the distance.

Besides rooms set aside for lady and gentlemen students there are rooms for the preceptor, preceptress, servants and janitor. The parlor is on the main floor to the right of the east entrance, where visitors are received. In the basement may be found a spacious dining hall, kitchen, pantry, cellar and laundry. The entire building is heated with steam, and is supplied throughout with modern improvements.

Rooms are furnished with bookshelves, study tables, chairs, wardrobes, bedsteads, and mattresses. Each room has two windows.

A new building, which will constitute a dormitory and a gymnasium combined is at present under erection.

AIM OF THE SCHOOL

THE ordinary state school cannot pay due attention to the religious convictions of its pupils, nor can the different creeds or religious tenets receive proper treatment there. The knowledge imparted in such schools must of necessity be of a purely secular nature. Gale College offers instruction in the branches of learning taught in the best high schools maintained by the public; but in addition to the instruction thus given, this institution aims at the religious development of the young, and desires to aid them in becoming more firmly established in the habits of Christian life and in the Lutheran faith. This is effected not only by imparting more religious knowledge than the pupils have obtained at home, but, also, and perhaps mainly, by arranging the work of the school in such a way that a truly Christian spirit may pervade the instruction in all branches taught, the Word of God being accepted as the safe, sufficient, and infallible rule. A person gains little, indeed, if he acquires knowledge which may be good and useful for the present life, if this is done at the expense of faith and religion. But this is but too often the case in schools from which the Word of God is excluded. It is our sincere wish, and we make an honest effort to make the spirit of Christianity and Christian discipline dominant at Gale College. The instruction in truths of Holy Writ go hand in hand with the instruction in all other branches, the aim of the institution being to educate young men and women in such a way that they will remain loyal to their God and their church, when after leaving school, they take up their work in religious or secular occupations. The fact that schools of this kind are necessary for our boys and girls must be evident to all Christian parents and superiors. We address ourselves mainly to them, accordingly, asking them to send their children to our school, whether they wish to give them a higher general education or wish to fit them especially for the work of teachers in the common or parochial schools, or for commercial pursuits.

We feel assured that we are justified in making this request, for the Word of God says: "Godliness is profitable unto all things having promise for the life that now is and for that which is to come."—I. Tim. 4:8.

DONATIONS

THE men who have taken up the onerous work of making Gale College a high school where young people may obtain a thorough education on a Christian basis, certainly have no more fervent wish than that their undertaking may be crowned with success. But in order that this may be accomplished it is necessary that the friends of the school who have the welfare of the church and of our young people at heart, assist them in their work both by showing their good will and especially by their prayers and contributions.

We gratefully appreciate the benevolence of friends in the past. Considerable sums of money are needed to make the school what it should be. We, accordingly, embrace this opportunity of asking our friends, wherever found, to donate such sums as their abilities allow to Gale College. Mr. T. E. Jensen, of Galesville, Wis., is the treasurer of the College. He will accept and receipt for all donations to the school. "Let us not be weary in well doing; for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not."—Gal. 6:9.

LIBRARY

A NECESSITY to every school is a good general and reference library. The Gale College library is growing yearly in value and use, and is becoming an important factor of the institution. It consists of several thousand volumes, comprising a choice selection of standard works in law, history, science, poetry, religion and Norwegian literature. These have been selected with a view to widen the range of work done by both teachers and students of the college.

The library is open to the students of the several departments, who have free access to the shelves, and liberal privileges in the withdrawing of books.

The students maintain a reading-room where they have the opportunity of reading numerous papers and periodicals both in English and Norwegian.

We return our thanks to all donors of books newspapers, or magazines. Contributions of books, papers, or money, by friends of the school, are earnestly solicited.

GENERAL INFORMATION

ALL students are required to attend devotional exercises at the school. Norwegian Lutheran pupils are expected to take up religion and Norwegian as branches of study, and to attend services at the Lutheran church.

Having taken up a branch of study, no student is at liberty to drop it without the consent of the teacher in charge and the president of the college.

The students are expected to conduct themselves as Christian ladies and gentlemen. Those who show themselves unwilling to do this will be promptly dismissed.

Students are strictly forbidden to attend degrading theatrical performances, to visit saloons, billiard halls, pool rooms, or other places of similar character. Special rules for the daily routine of the school will be made as found necessary.

GALE COLLEGE CLUB

IN the month of June, 1905, a society was organized among the graduates of Gale College. Following is the aim of this society as set forth in its constitution: (a) To create greater interest in Gale College. (b) To encourage young people to attend Gale. (c) To render moral and financial support. (d) To maintain a bond of union and good fellowship among the graduates and other friends of this institution.

Eligible for membership to this club shall be: (a) Graduates of Gale College. (b) Those who have attended the school. (c) Other friends of the institution willing to render moral and financial support.

The club meets annually, and is in a flourishing condition. Its present membership is 220.

A summary of the accounts of the club will be found on page 44.

THE ACADEMY

(For outline of courses see pages 35-38)

THE purpose of the academy is to prepare thoroughly for the standard courses in any college, the state university, and the university of Minnesota, and to provide a good general education for those who cannot continue their studies further.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ENTRANCE. While the aim is to admit no students to the academy unless they possess the equivalent of a common school education, opportunity will be given to mature students of ability to make up any studies in which they are deficient during the first semester of their attendance.

The Academical Four Year Course is the standard course. All students having a common school education or equivalent thereto, enter this course. Students who show marked ability and unusual industry will be permitted to take up additional studies in order, if possible, to finish the work in three years.

Commercial Department

THE ENGLISH COMMERCIAL

THE aim of this course is to provide, in addition to the usual business studies, such academic branches as are more and more being recognized as essential to a thorough business education. Advanced work is done in all business branches. This, together with the general instruction given in science, history, language and literature, makes the graduate of this course peculiarly well adapted to meet the varied requirements and unexpected emergencies that will of necessity arise in our present complicated industrial system. To all who successfully complete this course will be awarded the degree of Bachelor of Accounts.

While our outline of studies gives a good idea of the studies required, it is to be understood that no person will receive the degree who does not give indications of being capable of taking up general business work. This means that he must be a fairly good business penman, must be well versed in general business principles, and be capable of independent investigation of accounting systems.

THE GRADUATE COURSE

To persons for whom it is impossible, or who lack the inclination to work for a degree, we offer a course that students of ability, who have had the required elementary training, can readily finish in one year. The studies in the Graduate Course are necessarily of a very practical nature. While much stress is laid on Bookkeeping and Business Practice, we believe that it is quite as important for a business man to be able to write a neatly and correctly constructed business letter. It is, therefore, our plan to make Business English and Penmanship strong features of the course.

PAROCHIAL NORMAL COURSE

THE constant and urgent demand for parochial school teachers has made it necessary to arrange a course of study for educating and training young people for the difficult and important work of properly guiding the moral and religious development of the children under their care. This course is intended for somewhat mature students, and those wishing to take it up will find it to their advantage to spend some time at the college studying preparatory and academic branches before taking up the special work of this course.

The principal studies of the course are, Religion, Pedagogics, Church History, Symbolics, Norwegian, History of Norwegian Literature. History of Norway. The study of church history embraces a somewhat more comprehensive survey of the field of Christian missions, as well as a fuller account of the development of the Lutheran church in America, than is usually found in compends of church history intended for use as text books. The study of Christian doctrine is made interesting as well as profitable by taking up certain books of the Bible for special study and exegetical treatment. This year the Acts of the Apostles has been read.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

THE department of music was established in the Fall of 1908. Since that time public patronage has demonstrated that this feature of the school is no longer an experiment. An ever increasing demand for musical instruction in piano and voice strongly emphasizes the necessity of its continuation in the future. During the past year about forty students were enrolled, and many of the regular students of the Academy were directly benefited by membership in musical organizations. They recognize that music is more than a mere accomplishment; that it has a high educational value and constitutes an important part of a complete education.

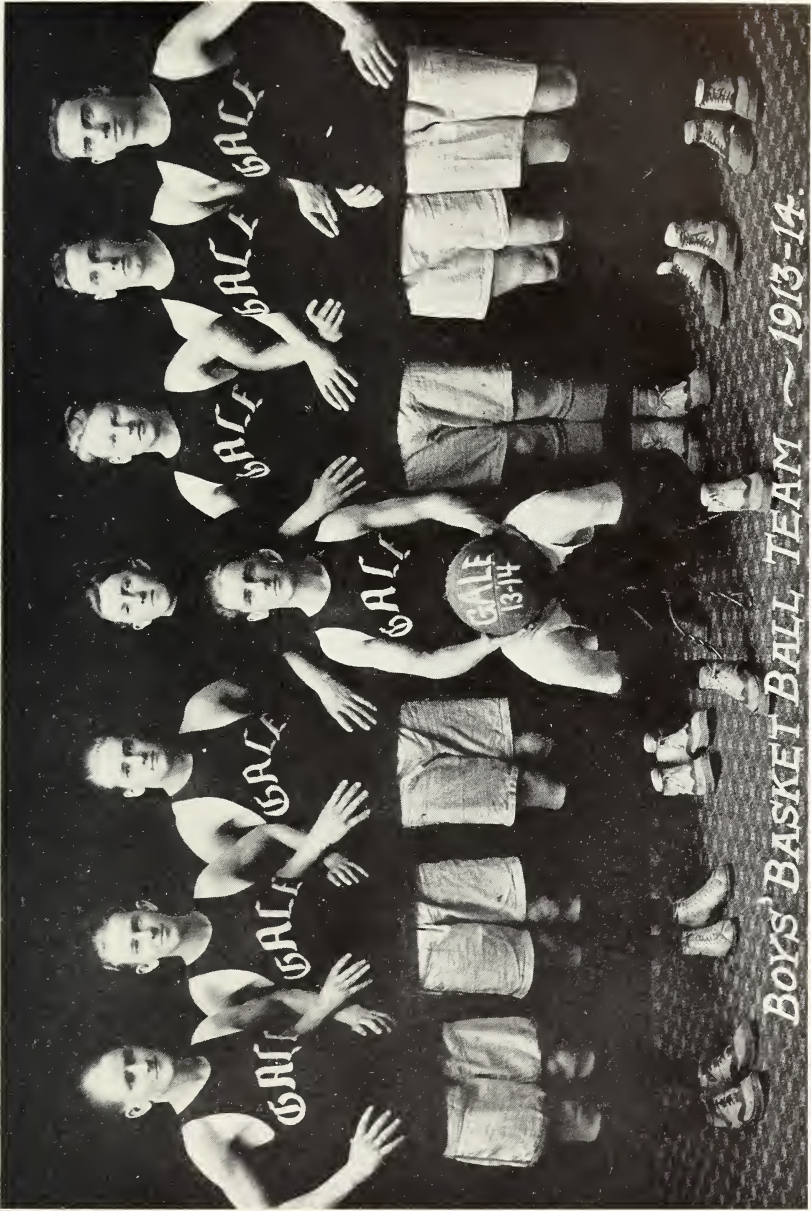

The aim of the musical department is to give a thorough foundation in the principles of piano playing and voice culture. The time required for graduation varies with the ability of the individual pupil and the extent of previous training. All we can do, therefore, is to indicate in a general way the courses offered, the completion of which will lead to a diploma or certificate of excellence.

SINGING. Individual voices differ so widely in their needs that this course can be indicated only in a general way.

PREPARATORY AND ACADEMIC. This course of instruction is based on the Italian school of voice training, the fundamental principle of which is to poise the voice so that every tone is pure in quality and produced with perfect ease. From this comes the even scale, the range, the power to sustain, all of which combined from the bel canto or beautiful singing.

Studies suitable to the needs of the individual. The study of the simple songs and ballads chosen from the best of the German, Italian, French, English, and American schools.

TEACHERS' CERTIFICATE. More difficult studies in vocal technique; interpretation of more difficult songs; study of the recitative and the aria.

PIANO QUARTETTE WORK offered to the pupils free of charge in addition to the regular work.

Much musical work of a more general nature has been carried on during the past year. Three hours a week have been devoted to chorus work, and there has been successfully conducted a glee club, a mixed octette, a mixed quartette, a ladies' quartette and piano and vocal duos. Many good public programs have been given and a tour made by the octette proved a success.

REGULATIONS. Students may enter this department at any time, but will not be accepted for less than one term.

Students in the regular course are expected to take two lessons a week unless special arrangements are made with the Director.

No deductions are made for absence from lessons unless for protracted illness or other valid reasons. Lessons missed are not made up unless the student brings good excuse.

Students are not permitted to take part in public musical performances without the consent of the Director.

All private lessons are thirty minutes each.

Tuition must be paid at the beginning of each term.

TUITION. The school year is divided into two semesters of eighteen weeks each, but tuition may be paid for terms of nine weeks as follows:

¶ Don't wait to buy that ring. For the past two or three years Diamonds have been steadily going up in price. They are going up still. That means that the longer you wait before buying the more you will have to pay.

¶ Start now with a small stone, if you like. Later on we will allow you the full purchase price upon a larger one. You will have the pleasure—the air of business prosperity—that goes with the wearing of a diamond, and you'll find this a good way to save money. We have a large selection to show you, and at unusually close prices.

A SMALL LEAK Sinks a Big Ship.

“Look out for the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves”—thrift follows the habit of saving. It's the little things in life that count—trifles make perfection.

The man who succeeds, saves. He stops the leaks by stopping careless spending and anchors his old age safe and secure in the Port of Content.

Conserve your income and accumulate a competency by depositing a definite amount of your earnings in this safe, sound, conservatively managed bank. Have a care for the little “leaks.” We pay 4% on savings accounts and compound the interest twice a year. One dollar starts an account. We welcome the small depositor.
